We would like to welcome you to services here at University and tell you how glad we are you have come and invite you back. If you are visiting you are our special guest and if you wouldn't mind staying after services a brief moment so we might get the chance of welcoming you in person. Also be our special guest at our monthly luncheon that will be directly after services at the SLC, the building in back of our parking lot. It's a time for getting together and sharing with one another's lives. Again welcome!

After the recent verdict of the trial everyone has been talking about, I came across a challenge for each of us found from the Sermon on the mount when Jesus challenged those in the crowd to examine their hearts. Her started out by saying multiple times "You have heard it said, but I tell you" Jesus was all about the heart. Jesus wanted them and now us to go further not just look at actions like the law had done for all those centuries but now look closer at intent. We will be examining one of those He mentioned in Matthew chapter 5. Today during this lesson I want us all to ask ourselves truthfully this question. Do I murder, in my heart? With what I think? What I say? How I act? Let's look with Jesus heart in Matthew chapter 5 starting with verse 21.

IN CASE YOU MISSED IT

Amos 8:11-12 Behold, the days come, saith the Lord GOD, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the words of the LORD: And they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the north even to the east, they shall run to and fro to seek the word of the LORD, and shall not find it.

As we just got done celebrating the 4th of July - Independence day - we're often reminded of the price that was paid for our freedom. But today, in that spirit, I want to recall a time when a heavy price was paid for a translation of our Bible. William Tyndale, a 16th century Englishman, translated the Bible into English while living in Germany. Finally in 1525, he was able to publish a New Testament in English. But the church authorities at the time were not pleased and they angrily sought to destroy Tyndale and his translation. Finally, he was caught and brought back to England where he was burned at the stake. As he was dying, he uttered these words: "Lord open the eyes of the King of England." His prayer became a prophecy, as it was the King of England, King James, who finally did publish the entire Bible in English about a hundred years later. Our English Bible translations became a reality through William Tyndale's heroic sacrifice and bravery, ultimately at the price of his lifeblood. Today lets not let our Bible sit on the shelf gathering dust. Considering the cost that was paid so you could read it and understand it and have a copy of let's all take full advantage of this precious gift. The freedom that we so enjoy these days are only a taste of the real freedom we have in Jesus the promise of eternal forgiveness and freedom from it. The cost of that freedom was the precious blood of Jesus. William Tyndale offered his life so we could read about this spiritual freedom in our own language. Let's not forget to also give thanks for our eternal liberty that we find in our Lord.
