We want to welcome you to services here at University and would like to invite you back the next time you are able. If you are visiting we would also ask if you would remain after services so we might get the chance of meeting you and welcoming you in person. Everyone plays a vital role in the Kingdom of encouraging one another as we continue to strive to do His will. Welcome.

If you have a question of us, would like to set up a group or personal bible study, looking for a church home or are in need of assistance please take the time to meet with us. We would love to see how we may serve you.

Love, it's a universal word that everyone wants to have in their life. The question I would like to put forth today is what our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ also asked. Who do you love and how do you love them? Do you only love those who will love you back? What kind of love is that? Can we and do we LOVE our enemies? Can we? How we love will indicate whether we are a child of God. So how is your and my love scale. Really?!? Lets all examine our hearts to find the true real answer and see if we can go further.

THANK YOU NOTE: Dear Brothers and Sisters of the University Church of Christ, It was a great surprise to receive the pillows and alarm clocks so early, as we had these on our Christmas List. As the Relief House here at Westview your gifts benefit every day on campus. Thank you for these gifts and your thoughtfulness. I ask only that you now remember us, the Boys, and this work in your prayers. Sincerely, Donnie & Beverly Leigh

In Case You Missed It

Philippians 4:8 Finally, brethren whatever things are true, whatever things are noble, whatever things are just, whatever things are pure, whatever things are lovely, whatever things are of good report, if there is any virtue and if there is anything praiseworthy — meditate on these things.

In the 1970’s when the Alaskan Pipeline was being constructed many Texans went to Alaska to work on the pipeline alongside the Eskimos, native Alaskans. However the Texans could only work a few hours in the frigid weather, while the Eskimos could easily work for hours on end. Some scientists decided to do a study to find out why the Eskimos could withstand the weather, while the Texans faltered. The study concluded there were no physiological differences between the Eskimos and the Texans. Then the scientists conducted a psychological study and discovered the difference. The Eskimos experienced the cold, but clearly understood that a job needed to be done. With that mindset, they focused intently on obtaining results rather than how the weather was affecting them. The Texans, on the other hand, were so focused on the cold weather it became their overriding experience of the situation, monopolizing their attention and energy and crippling their capacity to work. When the Apostle Paul penned these words in Philip-pians 4:8, exhorting us to meditate on those things which are good etc. — he was in prison. Yet he clearly had been training himself not to focus on his external circumstances, but on everything good, noble and praiseworthy, and especially the Lord Himself! Paul was no stranger to discomfort or the temptation it brings. But he’d learned well that his inward attitude toward difficult external circumstances could dramatically affect the way he experienced them and also his capacity to function in spite of them. Focus on how bad things are — the trials, temptations, the circumstances that surround you — and you will be crippled by the amount of attention you give to them. Focus on the Lord, His Word, His promises, His deliverance, and everything good He is, has done, and will do, and you will work like an Eskimo in frigid air.
